Dear Mr. Gruenberg:

I am writing to express my concerns regarding the possibility of the Wal-Mart Corp. entering the banking industry.

If Wal-Mart Corp. is approved to provide banking services it would increase their concentration of power in relation to the working class in America as we know they are currently the largest employer world-wide. I feel this would not be in the best interest of American's. Historically, Wal-Mart has manipulated their own employee time cards which is a sweeping violation of state law only to keep their labor costs in check.

If they were to enter the banking arena, I fear this would only lead to more fraudulent actions and manipulations of state and federal laws. I strongly urge the FDIC board to carefully consider this decision and ultimately decline approval to Wal-Mart.

Thank you for your time in this matter.

Sincerely,

Deborah Logan
